WEAVER RULING WILL GOVERN THE TREASURER

The opinion of Mr. Weaver and the announcement that Col. McCarthy will abide by it, as it involves almost a million dollars in Oahu alone. In other words, in following out the conclusions in the attorney general's opinion, nearly a million dollars in excess of the usual amount would have to be paid in taxes before July 1, which would have swept away much of the cash of the banks and generally accentuated the business depression.

Officials of other counties, realizing the serious consequences which would follow the demand for the full year's taxes at the opening of the fiscal year, are calling for a copy of the opinion written by Mr. Weaver, and according to Col. McCarthy they will follow it.

Great interest was shown in financial circles yesterday when the news of the opinion of Mr. Weaver was published in the Star-Bulletin. Banks and plantations had been eagerly awaiting it.

"I am very well satisfied with the opinion of Mr. Weaver and I shall follow it; I also believe other county treasurers will follow it. The interpretation given by Mr. Weaver seems to me to be the only just one and clearly is in accordance with the intent of the legislature; it would mean a great hardship to force all the big taxpayers to liquidate their entire year's taxes before getting a license, especially as it was unexpected and the banks unprepared to meet what would have been a sudden and straining call for money. I have communicated with the treasurer of Hawaii and informed him of the opinion I have. I will forward him a copy of the opinion Saturday.

Territorial Treasurer Conkling says the new law that has caused the discomfiture had its origin in the board of equalization. As contemplated and prepared by members of that body it read that only those persons presenting certificates showing they owed no delinquent taxes should receive license renewals.

Such, he contends, was the intent of the drafters of the bill, but in its passage through the legislature the alteration was made demanding that they have paid all taxes "due."

"Now, if the business firms of the territory were forced to make the November payment at the present time they would have to deposit about $1,500,000 with the tax assessors before July 1, as that is the approximate total of the first tax payment, made May 15," said he.

"With money already tight it would have a serious cramping effect, not on the territorial and county governments but on business in general. It would mean that the money would be tied up in the vaults until the counties could spend it through the regular channels."

"The counties, which would get the bulk of it, could not very well deposit it with the banks because the banks have about all the money they care to take from either the territory or counties at the present time. We thus would not be able to get the money into circulation and would be in the same dilemma as before the deposit-tory act went into effect—that is, we would have to keep the coin locked in the vaults until it could be spent on the various governmental works it would be drawing no interest to the counties or territory."

He stated that the assessors in each county will issue certificates to all applying, who have paid in full up to May 15, setting forth that the holder does not "owe any delinquent taxes." On the strength of these certificates licenses and renewals will be issued by the county treasurers.

HAD A RUN OF LUCK ON REACHING FRANCE

(By Latest Mail)

PARIS — Tax Receiver Reisser of French Guiana, which embraces Devil's island and other imitations of Hades, came all the way from South America to France to ask for a government job at home, and was extremely worried for fear he would not get one.

But on landing he learned that he had just won half a million francs in the Panama lottery.

The next day he found that he had won two hundred thousand francs in the Credit Foncier lottery.

And on the following day the official journal published a notice of his appointment to the much sought government job at home.

Many martyrs are self-made.

Any man without friends is a man without money.

To him that hath trouble more shall be given.

It takes other people to see the silver lining of our clouds.

LOCAL AND GENERAL

Exercises in the Japanese schools throughout the territory July 30 will mark the first anniversary of the death of Emperor Mutsuhito of Japan. A cable to this city from the Japanese capital yesterday announced that July 30 has been set aside by the Japanese department of education in memory of the late monarch. It is expected that a number of local Japanese business men will meet at an early date to make definite arrangements for the observance of the day here.

PERSONALITIES

MISS HELEN HIGGINS, a pretty young society girl of Los Angeles, who is visiting in Honolulu and is a guest at the Pleasanton with her brother, Sidney Higgins, who accompanied her here, will leave late this afternoon for Haleiwa. A number of the guests at the Pleasanton will accompany Miss Higgins and her brother.

DR. J. S. B. PRATT and Prof. A. H. Keller returned this morning from Maui, where they made a circuit of the island on a tour of inspection occupying two days' time. Dr. Pratt reports marked improvement in many of the plantation camps and sanitary conditions generally excellent.

LAND COMMISSIONER JOSHUA TUCKER will leave this evening for Kauai, to supervise the selection of homestead lots at Lihue Saturday. The drawings on these lots were held last Saturday for the Waipouli and Kalahoe tracts.

MAJOR CASE and his wife and daughter are guests at the Pleasanton. Major Case is one of the officers recently assigned to the Hawaii division.

BRIGADIER-GENERAL FUNSTON and Mrs. Funston have moved from the Pleasanton to their new home. They have leased the residence of H. M. Hepburn, who goes to the Coast shortly.

WHISKERS OF PARSON PULLED IN OPEN COURT

[By Latest Mail]

NEW YORK.—She pulled the pastor's whiskers right before everybody in the West Side court and Magistrate Appleton was so startled that he jumped out of his chair. The court officers gasped at the unexpectedness of the thing. Big and strong was Mrs. Elizabeth Holmar of No. 561 West Fifth street, and venerable and not overstrong was the Rev. Herman Von Hollen.

Her fingers firmly entwined in the old man's venerable whiskers, she tugged and tugged and tugged, so that his head jerked wildly forward and backward, his eyes became dazed and he nearly swooned while the members of the German Lutheran Church of Christ in West Fifth street cried aloud in the court in their astonishment.

"Grab that woman," said his honor and a court officer seized Mrs. Holmar, but she had to twist her wrist hard before she would relinquish her hold on the pastor's whiskers.

Magistrate Appleton asked Pastor Von Hollen if he cared to make a charge of assault against the woman, but the old man shook his head, so the woman escaped with only a reuke from the bench. The court took the church case under advisement for a week.

When the Rev. Mr. Von Hollen had recovered he said to a World reporter:

"It was shameful—that woman's action. I am pastor of a Lutheran church in the Bronx, but take care of the Fifth street church until a permanent pastor can be selected. The authorities put a young clergyman named H. J. Freyer in charge on probation. I objected to Mr. Freyer's acceptance, having heard discouraging reports concerning him. He started a church of his own further down the street. His friends carried away documents and money belonging to the church of Christ."

"Our recourse was in and so proceedings were taken by Harry Weinberg, former of Christ Church."
